

Schedule 1PROPERTY TRANSACTION QUESTIONNAIRE

Any property transaction will entail the (would-be) buyer having a “buyer beware” duty (in that he or she is responsible for researching the property of his or her choice in order to form as good a picture of it as possible) and the seller, a disclosure duty (in that he or she has to make known any facts or circumstances relating to the property that he or she might reasonably consider as having relevance to his or her buyer). This questionnaire has been specifically designed to make it easier for those who have engaged VBO as their selling agent to meet their disclosure obligations.

The seller of a property in addition to having to disclose to his or her (would-be) buyer any (hidden) defects to the property he or she is aware of must also ensure that hand-over to the new owner takes place subject to “free and clear title”, i.e. without any restrictions of a legal nature (such as mortgages or easements) not previously having been disclosed to and accepted by the buyer. Please note that it is your responsibility as a seller to prevent property encumbrances transferring unbeknownst to your buyer!

This questionnaire has been designed to help your VBO estate agent prepare the contract of sale for the property you are selling and, where appropriate, document the detailed written arrangements regarding practical and/or legal defects to the property your buyer has agreed to assume responsibility for. You will appreciate the importance of your answering all questions accurately and to the best of your knowledge and belief. We cannot stress too much how important it is for you to liaise with your estate agent if you need additional information or are not entirely sure how to answer particular questions: your VBO agent, after all, is the trusted property expert who will help you prepare for and document the sale of your property as well as coach and advise you while you negotiate what tends not to be as straightforward a path as you might have expected.

It is up to you to choose between digital and pen-based completion of this questionnaire. Digital completion is achieved by clicking the grey box of your choice to the right of each question, then using the tabulator ("tab") key to move on to the next question.

Any question answered in the affirmative requires an explanation. If you run out of space, use the "Inventory of particulars/supplementary information" forming part of this questionnaire and indicate per explanation which question it relates to.
